Program Description

Team of Teams®: Transformational Partner Programme

This 6 half-day online experience is for experienced coaches, facilitators, and change leaders who want to deepen their systemic practice and work effectively across teams, functions, and organisational boundaries. The programme isn't about applying tools from the outside – it's about stepping into the lived experience of being part of a team of teams: sensing the dynamics between groups, navigating complexity, and learning how to coach the connection, not just the content.

Drawing inspiration from the pioneering work of the McChrystal Group's Team of Teams® framework – which redefined how large organisations build adaptability and trust across networks – this programme explores how those principles can be developed through coaching practice. It is also informed by Dr Catherine Carr and Professor Peter Hawkins' latest book, Team of Teams Coaching: Using a Teaming Approach to Increase Business Impact, and grounded in research from over 70 organisations worldwide.

You'll explore five core disciplines that support more regenerative, joined-up ways of working. You'll experiment with how to develop shared purpose across silos, engage diverse stakeholders, cultivate distributed leadership, and build culture from the space between. Each day is structured as a living lab: through live systemic constellations, stakeholder mapping, design experiments, and reflective practice, you'll apply your learning to real-world client systems – and to the field of your own learning group.

By the end, you'll leave with fresh insights, practical frameworks, and a more embodied way of working – ready to support teams of teams in creating value, alignment, and momentum across complex systems.

What You Will Learn

By participating in this programme, you will:

- Learn how to coach and facilitate across teams and boundaries—not just within them
- Deepen your perception and ability to work across systems
- Practice with live dynamics in a simulation based on a real organization.
- Explore the five core disciplines of systemic team of teams practice
- Map and influence stakeholder partner systems using vertical, horizontal and cross functional lens.
- Apply practical tools for building shared purpose, distributed leadership, and generative learning across silos
- Practise coaching the ‘space between’—surfacing tensions, relationships and possibilities in complex systems
- Reflect on your own patterns, edges and presence as a transformational partner

Who Is This For?

This programme is designed for experienced practitioners who are currently actively working with one or multiple teams and are ready to work systemically across organisations, including:

- Those with prior team coaching training
- Varied backgrounds welcome - coaching, consulting, training, OD, change and HR.

It is especially relevant for those supporting multiple teams, senior leadership groups, cross-functional initiatives, alliances or multi-stakeholder ecosystems.

Benefits

By the end of the programme, you will:

- Gain new tools, language and systemic practices.
- Clarify your own developmental edge as a coach, leader and facilitator.
- Expand your impact from individual or team work to complex teams and whole system transformation.
- Build confidence in working with emergence and navigating tensions and uncertainty.
- Join a peer community of advanced practitioners committed to regenerative change.
- Leave with a practical, real-world design for a team of teams intervention.
- Experience the energy, challenge and support of being part of a team of teams system.

SUPERVISION GROUPS

Team of Teams Supervision is designed to help you develop your capacity to think and act systemically while addressing real-world team and team of teams coaching challenges in a collaborative, reflective space.

This is an option for those wanting support in a group supervision format to support the embedding of your learning and to receive guidance and support as you develop your systemic team of teams coaching practice with a qualified Systemic Team Coaching® supervisor alongside peers.

Approach & Process:

- ✓ Present live coaching cases and inquiry topics and themes for supervision.
- ✓ Use systemic methods to explore complexity and generate actionable insights.
- ✓ Engage in deep listening, visual mapping, and reflective inquiry.
- ✓ Identify leverage points for systemic transformation within and across teams.
- ✓ Methodologies: Seven-Eyed Supervision, Ecosystem Mapping, and real-time case explorations.
- ✓ Collectively explore ways to build your Team of Teams Coaching business

Format:

- ◆ Group Size: 6–8 participants.
- ◆ Facilitator: Senior Systemic Team Coaching® Supervisor.
- ◆ Sessions: Monthly for 6 months (2-hour sessions, 12 hours total).

Michelle Chambers

Executive Coach and Systemic Team Coach

As a recognized thought leader in executive and team coaching, leadership and organization development, Michelle has brought over 30 years of proven and successful experience in driving transformational changes in organizations. Michelle was formerly responsible for Leadership Development, enterprise wide for Telus Mobility in Canada. She has worked across many industries and is the recipient of an ICF Prism Coaching Award and was a finalist for a global Change Leadership award. She is also the Program Director for the Centre of Excellence in OD and Change and the Masters Certificate in OD & Change at Schulich Exec Ed, York University.

Her passion is working with systems, complex change and teams. She trained with Team Coaching International in 2010 with Phil Sandahl on team coaching (systemic) and has been senior faculty since 2013 training team coaches globally. In September 2018, she pursued the Systemic Team Coaching Certificate, where she met with Dr. Catherine Carr and Prof. Peter Hawkins as it aligned with her systemic thinking as an OD practitioner and she appreciated Peter's writing and publications in "Leadership Team Coaching". Michelle was invited to be part of the Senior Practitioner in Systemic Team Coaching® Program as faculty in 2023 and has also served as lead faculty for the Systemic Team Coaching® program 2024-25. In 2022, she trained as a Systemic Team Coaching Supervisor.

Michelle speaks regularly on team coaching, culture and transformation at conferences such as Coaching.com; ICF, ACMP, I4PL, HRP, ODN and others. Michelle has published writings on systemic team coaching in "The Team Coaching Casebook" and many articles publications such as Choice Coaching Magazine and more. She has been on several team coaching podcasts including the "Team Coaching Zone" with Kirster Lowe. She loves the complexity and the positive collective impact that can be achieved when systemic team coaches co-create with their clients a more positive culture in which they can achieve organizational goals for their partners or stakeholders, both in the present and in the future.
