WHO IS THIS FOR?

Designed for people who already have experience facilitating, coaching, developing or leading teams, or who work in organizational learning and leadership contexts.

Coaches and facilitators

Learning specialists, HR and OD practitioners

Team leads, team managers and senior leaders

Organizational consultants and leadership development professionals

WHAT YOU WILL LEARN

Hawkins Five Disciplines

Understand the model and apply it to the real work of systemic team coaching.

Team Coaching

Structure systemic team coaching engagements with clear contracting, diagnostic, practice and review.

Self as Instrument

Use physical senses, intuition and embodied awareness as valuable data for coaching interventions.

Team Connect 360

Learn how to interpret and apply the Team Connect 360 diagnostic in client engagements.

BENEFITS FOR YOU AND YOUR CLIENTS

See the whole system and influence meaningful change

Design co-ordinated interventions that drive meaningful change

Build alignment across teams and stakeholders

Embed learning and create sustainable impact

WHAT MAKES THIS PROGRAM DIFFERENT?

Unlike traditional team coaching, this program develops your ability to coach not only the team itself but also the wider organizational system in which it operates.

Grounded in Professor Peter Hawkins' internationally recognised Five Disciplines model, you'll learn through live practice, reflection and feedback—building the confidence to design and deliver systemic team coaching that creates lasting organizational impact.

By the end of the program, you'll be ready to structure and lead systemic team coaching engagements that create lasting change.
